Industry for Alberta

In the past decade Alberta has experienced notable industrial growth, leading some to believe that the day is not far distant when manufacturing will replace agriculture as Alberta's most important source of wealth.

While the point does not concern us at the present time, we are interested in assessing the relative industrialization of the small Alberta town with a typical small town in eastern Canada.

And it doesn't require much thought to come up with the decision that eastern towns are far more industrialized than ours, and consequently, in the main are prosperous.

Alberta has for decades been dependent on one single main source of revenue—the farms. Consequently, in depression times when the farm surpluses glutted the markets and the price system offered meagre returns to the farmers, all Alberta suffered.

What is now happening in Alberta, though, is that our economy is becoming constantly more diversified, and therefore, more stable.

Along with farming we have oil, natural gas, coal, lumber, ceramics, and other key industries.

But as the small towns constitute the backbone of Alberta, our province will never be really secure until they too are industrialized in a diversified manner.

Small manufacturing plants, flour mills, salt mills, are required in ever greater number to protect the welfare of Albertans.

And so it is that we invite prospective manufacturers to locate in Alberta's small towns or in the suburbs of cities, which after all, are the best places in the country to raise families and lead decent lives.

Enquiries directed to the country to provincial government, local boards of trade, and the newspapers, will receive prompt attention.

Folly of Ignorance

A recent news item appearing in the daily press is worthy of more than brief thought, as it deals with one of mankind's most menacing diseases—and the folly of ignorance which often makes it worse.

In this case, a noted American writer, shot his wife, and then turned his gun on himself, all because he thought she had cancer, whereas actually she didn't.

He was John Guy Gilpatrick, author of the well-known Glencannon stories which have appeared for years in the Saturday Evening Post.

A few days before the double tragedy, Mrs. Gilpatrick visited a physician and was told she had a breast tumor. She was told it was non-malignant, but she became hysterical. Her husband then was advised privately that it was malignant cancer, police stated.

Cancer is a disease around which probably more fear and superstition has prevailed than any other affliction. Most often the tragedy comes as a result of lack of medical attention, but in this case the principles involved apparently chose to end their lives rather than live on with one so afflicted.

The Canadian Cancer Society, in its nation-wide educational campaign, have continually stressed that cancer can be cured—if caught in time. On record are hundreds, perhaps thousands, of cases that have been checked in time for the patient to live a normal and happy life.

There is excuse neither for ignoring cancer, nor for becoming unduly alarmed over it. Caught in time, it can be stopped.

Immediately assuming that one has cancer, because of similar symptoms, or overlooking danger signs of the disease, are two follies each as foolhardy as the other.

Note and Comment

Labor is never a burden to the man who loves his work; but has anybody even seen the guy?

In this day of competition, you must not only put out a good product, but you must advertise it.

Land of Purple Hills

By RAYMOND ARGYLE

Stretching northwest from Edmonton, back toward the distant Rocky Mountains are a chain of long valleys bounded on either side by low purple hills. One of the most serene pastoral regions of Alberta, this is the Lac Ste. Anne country, so named by early French explorers in honor of one of their patron saints.

I had the pleasure of spending a week-end in the Lac Ste. Anne country a short while ago. What impressed me most about the district is its virtual 'last frontier' atmosphere. A single track of rail line reaches far back into those purple hills, together with a gravel highway that probably is impassable during a typical muddy Alberta spring.

Beauly spot of the region is the lake, site of popular Alberta Beach, where hundreds of people from the surrounding districts, and from Edmonton, spend pleasant week-ends, forgetting for awhile their worries which they've left behind them.

Driving out from Edmonton you enter the district in the vicinity of Onoway, but on a drive through on the main road you see only the outline of the town, with its tall church spire and elevators standing against the prairie horizon. It is here that the municipal office for the district is located.

The hot July sun burns on unendingly in the sky, and the green foliage along the road stands scorched in the mid-day blaze. Farmers of the district ominously scan the skies for sight of rain, the worry of drought this year adding to their common problems of farm labor, market prospects, and other worries of the prairie farmer.

Some of the little towns that dot the Lac Ste. Anne country (there's almost a score of them all told), are pretty communities settled along the byways of the district, but some are gaunt, clapboard towns that give the appearance of being stiffening hot all summer and freezing cold in winter.

Perhaps the most pleasant town is Sanguo, built on a hill overlooking the main road, layed out so that the casual passer-by sees only a brief glimpse of the place.

Farther on the traveller comes to Rochfort Bridge, so named because of the great wooden trestle over which the railway runs. Beyond Rochfort Bridge lies Mayerthorpe, the last sizable community on the line.

Few travelers go beyond Mayerthorpe, but if they did, they would find the land even more beautiful and the hills a deeper hue of purple, as they reached Greencourt, and Whitecourt, the end of the line.

It was at Rochfort Bridge that my friends and I took in a Dominion Day barn dance which culminated a long day of festivities on the part of the people of the surrounding district.

To the casual observer it would seem to be a wild jamboree held perhaps once a century, but a local resident informed me that it is merely a bi-weekly occurrence.

"The people sure are happy up here," he told me, and I believed it.

Whole families, from the littlest tykes up to the grandfathers, turn out for these dances. There's nothing formal about it, either, the local dance hall being one spot where 'come as you are' means something.

And the reason for this, I think, is that the people here, living close to the earth as they do, are genuine and sincere, and incidentally not as neurotic as the average city dweller.

As a matter of fact, this is one place where the 'back to the land' movement has succeeded.

I was interested in seeing this country, because the newspaper firm I work for has two papers in the district, the Onoway Westerner, and the Lac Ste. Anne Chronicle, at Sanguo.

And I'm looking forward to the time when I go back to Lac Ste. Anne, perhaps for a longer stay than my last short visit there.

Scriptural Meditations

By ANSLEY BLAIR

"Our heavenly Father waits to bestow upon us the fullness of His blessing. It is our privilege to drink largely at the fountain of boundless love. What a wonder it is that we pray so little! God is ready and willing to hear the sincere prayer of the humblest of His children, and yet there is much manifest reluctance on our part to make known our wants to God.

"What can the angels of heaven think of poor helpless human beings, who are subject to temptation, when God's heart of infinite love yearns toward them, ready to give them more than they can ask or think, and yet they pray so little, and have so little faith?

LOVER'S LEAP

COMMENT FROM THE PRESS

Alberta's Highways

From Calgary Albertan

A Calgaryian who motored back from Denver this week says the longest stretch of good road on the journey was north of the U.S. border. Out of Denver for a short distance the highway was in fine shape and over most of the rest of the route it was fairly good, but not as good as in Alberta.

This should mean a good deal to American tourists. The average motorist considers the roads first of all. He would sooner visit different scenery on a good road than the finest scenery on indifferent roads. The word will soon get around south of the border that the main Alberta highways are becoming rapidly improved and equal to the best in the States. The tourist traffic, which is such an important source of American dollars, should expand a good deal.

It means that Alberta people, too, will have to revise their inferiority complex when it comes to roads. They have settled into the habit of thinking of their roads as the worst in the world.

Alberta still has a long way to go before its highway system can be considered adequate. Our point is simply that it is moving rapidly in the right direction and has already made considerable progress.

Of course the cost is great. Something in the order of twenty million dollars a year is being spent. Part of it comes out of the provincial government's buoyant current revenue, the rest out of its rich oil legacy.

Jolt in the Auto World

From The Camrose Canadian

Canadians in general got a statistical shock recently when it was revealed that 34,000 English cars had been imported into Canada in 1949 and the prospects were for 70,000 cars to be imported in 1950.

Canadian manufacturers, or should we say assemblers, are seeking trade barriers to protect the advantage they now enjoy. The public is quite without sympathy. Seems funny to hear a British car has the highest registration of any single make of car in the province of British Columbia. The Canadian and American automobile manufacturers have refused to believe that their public would accept a lighter and cheaper car. All the time since 1934 they have been striving for a bigger and more luxurious car, completely oblivious to the low price field. . . . The fact remains that there are a lot of people who would like to buy a new car within the $1,000 to $1,200 range.

Letters to the Editor

WHEAT MARKET

Dear Sir.—I hope that your readers will not be fooled by Jimmy Gardiner's 'get tough with Britain policy,' as he is merely trying to divert attention from his own and C. D. Howe's failings.

Some months ago C. D. Howe issued to farmers an urgent appeal to market all available wheat so that the Wheat Board could live up to its contract and market commitments. Farmers believed this.

But latest official figures show that there are 106 million bushels of wheat in store, amounting to a large surplus. There will be an 80 million bushel carry-over on this.

The present average price is $2.10 but after August 1 we will get $1.40 at the Lakehead, and will thus lose 70 cents a bushel, and yet the minister of trade and commerce told the farmers months ago that all their wheat was sold!

Can Jimmy Gardiner and C. D. Howe fool us this way?

TOM L. POULSON,

Rochfort Bridge.

"CIVIC CENTRE"

Dear Sir.—In your newspaper a few weeks ago, you carried an article dealing with the Detweiler proposal for a $25 million civic centre in downtown Edmonton. At the last council meeting, councilors approved the plan in principle.

Then, last week, the daily paper in this city which is opposing the project, came out with a story, and no one knew where it came from, saying that some Canadian wanted to undertake a similar project. Sounds like they're just trying to confuse the thing.

SUSPICIOUS.

South Edmonton.

Alberta Crop Prospects Favorable Though Drought Menace Persists

By RAYMOND ARGYLE

Alberta's crop outlook for 1950 is generally favorable, although several areas are threatened with drought as rainfall continues below normal. Major drought threat prevails in the Onoway-Thorhild-Boyle area, while moisture is reported adequate in the Killam-Sedgewick-Czar district.

Alarmed by the serious drought menace, Carl Stimpfle, head of the Farmers' Union of Alberta, last week said that almost total failure of the northern Alberta wheat crop looms only a week away, if more rain doesn't fall.

In the area immediately around Edmonton, more rainfall is badly needed.

Moisture conditions have remained practically stationary for the past month, with scattered rainfall improving the outlook in most areas. A better crop is looked for in 1950 than last year.

About half of Alberta's wheat crop is now in the shot blade. This is the blade which will later develop into the blade of wheat.

Wheat is now from six to 18 inches in height, and coarse grains vary in height from four to 14 inches.

Little hail damage has been reported. While Saskatchewan was last week struck with severe hail storms, Alberta has not yet been struck by this mid-summer menace.

Cutworms are troublesome over wide areas, but grasshopper damage is limited to the south and eastern parts of the province.

Hay Crop Unsure

Although recent rains have improved some pastures, prospects for the hay crop are not up to average.

Condition of livestock in all districts ranges from fair to good. Butter and milk production is near last year's level, but has shown considerable decrease in comparison with 1948.

At the present time, about 25 per cent of Alberta's crop area is in urgent need of rain. R. M. Putnam, assistant deputy minister of agriculture, said this week.

He reported that a belt extending from Camrose, through Edmonton widening out to include Onoway and Boyle, and into the Peace River, constitutes the major dry belt in the province.

But even so, he added, general increase in the yield throughout the province is expected this year, in comparison to 1949's crop.

Some Sections Good

Along the important "Killam Line," from Daysland east to the Saskatchewan border, both sub-soil and surface moisture conditions are good, a report from Sedgewick indicates this week.

More than two inches of rain have fallen since the end

Alberta Fires Under Control

All forest fires in Alberta have been brought under control, but the fire hazard remains acute, forestry officials announced this week.

No new fires were reported during the week-end, but crews still were fighting blazes in the Edson-Sturgeon Lake area. These fires have been brought under control, but the crews are keeping a close watch for further spreading.

Other fires brought under control recently were in the Lac la Biche district, and north of Whitecourt.

In the year ending March 31, 1949, the interest paid by the federal government on the public debt cost Canadians $464,000,000.

Of June, and district agriculturalist Larry Williams says crop prospects in the district look very bright.

On the average, wheat is standing about 15 inches high, with over 50 per cent in the shot blade.

Recent very hot weather has not yet damaged crops, although it has promoted rapid growth of weeds, and more rainfall is needed. Hail damage has been slight.

Around Calgary, and through the Crossfield, Beiseker and Rockyford districts, moisture conditions are reported to be 60 per cent of normal.

Alberta Brothers Build Own Car

This remarkable steel-topped convertible is the creation of the four Juchli brothers of South Edmonton, Armand, Andrew, Marcel and Maurice. Andrew Juchli is seen at the wheel of the extra-wide convertible with Mrs. Juchli. The front seat will accommodate five passengers comfortably. The car was built in five months' time in the brothers' garage.

New Style Convertible Built in Edmonton

In case Albertans see a radical streamlined convertible speeding along the highways this summer, it is not another foreign import, but a home-made car built by the Juchli brothers of South Edmonton.

Building autos is their hobby, one which they attend to with professional care.

"The Custom Cruiser," as the brothers call their creation, is built on a Chevrolet chassis with a Chevrolet engine, steering and transmission. Though the car has a standard wheel-base, it is seven feet two inches wide and 16 feet long.

Two thousand hours of labor went into building the unusual auto. It is equipped with a radio and heater, and is painted green.

Across the car's massive front are two ordinary headlights mounted beside a large centre light, two fog lamps, and four parking lights.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON:

New Series Portrays Great Bible Characters

With this lesson, we begin a new quarter's series of lessons on "Great Men and Women of the Bible."

We meet such people as Jacob, Moses, Ruth, Samuel, David, Elijah and Ezra; John the Baptist, Mary the Mother of Jesus, Peter, John, Mark, James, the brother of Jesus and Paul the great missionary. These people met and overcame some of the same obstacles which we meet in our own home towns, are the same sort of people as those we meet in our own home towns, except that they had a divine light and strength within their hearts, which must come into our hearts if we are to be worthy followers of Jesus Christ.

The story of Jacob is perhaps too familiar to Bible students to even need a review. As we now know, Jacob started out as a cheat. He cheated his brother, his father and his father-in-law. He discovered, however, that he got nothing but trouble for his deceit and that his greatest enemy was himself. Before we criticize Jacob too severely, we should look back into our own lives and see how much we were and are like him. It will be interesting to discover how, with all his sins and faults, he became great.

Jacob spent most of his life trying to get away from himself or from someone he had wronged. He never got away from either. It was only after his full surrender of himself to God that he received the blessing and contentment which only God can provide.

In one of his great sermons Dwight L. Moody, in talking about Bible characters, said: "If they were all like Joseph and Joshua and Daniel, and Jeremiah, and John the Baptist, and a few of those characters who never tripped and fell, that never deviated a hair's breadth, I think it would discourage a good many of us. But when we come to a character like Jacob, and we find that God had grace enough to save him, I think that there is hope for almost any of us; for, by nature, he was as bad a character as you can find. By nature, he was very treacherous and deceitful."

"Jacob means a planner and a deceiver. He started wrong. He started with a lie in his mouth. I do not know that the ladies will like to hear me say it, but I think his mother was as much to blame as he was: she told him to tell a lie to his father. The object of taking up such a character as this is not to look at the failings of Jacob and forget our own. Though he was a grandson of Abraham, he is twin brother to most of us." Jacob discovered the "high cost of low living." He lied and cheated his way through half his life, until he came to the place where he realized that not only did the cheating and the lying not "pay off," but that there was a better life open to him if he had the courage to break his evil habits and live as God wanted him to live. Jacob was not able to win the struggle all by himself—he needed God to help him break the chains of habit. He "struggled" with God, and with the angels of God and, when he realized at last that he could never win without God on his side, he really began to live.

Do you know of anyone who has "cheated his way to happiness?" There are some who have apparently "cheated" their way to material success but material success alone has never brought real happiness to anyone. The words of the poem by Edgar A. Guest come to mind in this connection, "I must live with myself, and so, I must be fit for myself to know."

Before closing we must point out that, even in the beginning, Jacob was not all bad. There is some good in the worst of us and some bad in the best of us. Jacob gave fourteen years of his life to win the girl he loved; he left his home in his old age to make the long journey to Egypt just to see his son Joseph once more before he died. Jacob is the perfect example of how God can make a good man out of a poor boy. The Master of Men went to work on Jacob at Bethel and Pei-el, smoothing out the rough spots in his character and molding him into one of mankind's noblest men.

U.S. PIPELINE WOULD TAP ALBERTA NATURAL GAS FIELDS

A group of Texans planning to pipe natural gas into the Pacific northwest will seek to supplement the Texas product with gas from Canadian fields.

The firm headed by Robert Herring of Houston, Texas, applied to the federal power commission Thursday for a permit to build a $200,000,000 pipeline from the Gulf Coast to British Columbia.

Herring stated in a telephone interview that a preliminary survey of the proposed 2,400-mile pipeline route was made in the last six weeks.

"We are going to give the Alberta government an opportunity to participate in our network of gas transmission lines to the extent their reserves will allow," Herring is quoted as saying. "The Canadians have only about five trillion cubic feet of proven reserves. Proven reserves in Texas total 90 trillion cubic feet."

Herring said his company is planning to present the program of the firm—the Pacific Northwest Pipeline Corp.—to the Alberta government.

VANCOUVER.—W. C. Mainwaring, vice-president of the British Columbia Electric Company, Friday confirmed that the Fish Engineering Corp. of Houston, Texas, has discussed with him a proposed $200,000,000 natural gas pipeline.

"Just what the discussions were, I am not at liberty to say," he said. The 2,400-mile line would carry gas from Houston to the Pacific northwest, including Vancouver.

Other companies plan to tap the rich Alberta fields and build a line to the coast.

"Eventually we're going to get gas, no matter who builds a pipeline," said Mr. Mainwaring.

Donkey Baseball Is Seen at Crossfield

By EVELYN LILLEY

CROSSFIELD.—By way of a complete change in baseball, Crossfield spent a side-splitting evening recently, when a donkey baseball promoter arrived with his mounts from the U.S.A.

The game was between Airdrie and Crossfield. The bases were shortened, the pitcher stayed put and the batter struck and quickly mounted a donkey with hopes for at least first base.

But those stubborn old mules dismounted their riders with ease and efficiency and made it plenty hard for remounting. Players coaxed and pleaded, but rewards came slowly.

Airdrie made a few home runs—crawls were more like it. Sammy, the mule, could only be coaxed to go a few feet, when he decided to lie down regularly for his nap, stretching his neck and head on the earth in spite of protests that the third base must be made.

Two donkeys got within two feet of home plate and all the rider's prayers couldn't induce them another step. They were eventually caught out. Airdrie won the game and in the donkey derby which followed, Tommy Stamp rode a winner.

Airdrie won the donkey potato race which was executed with spears.

Letter to Louisa

Two Boy Friends Are Problem of Alberta Girl

Dear Louisa—I have a boy friend that I have been going with since Easter. He is 20 years old, and does not own any property so far, as he is on the poor side.

I also have another boy friend, who is 25, and wants me to marry him. He has two farms and a car also. My parents do not seem to approve of me going out with the youngest one.

I am 18 years old. Do you think that my parents are wrong, and which one do you think is better, the one 20 or the one 25. I will take your advice.

R. R. S.

Answer—From the few facts you have given me it is rather hard to give you complete advice.

Just because the younger boy does not yet have any property does not in itself mean too much, unless reasons other than his age can account for this. And in your parents liking the older boy better, there are probably motivated by the desire to see you have security in your married life, and feel that he is better able to give you this.

Yet even worldly security will not do you any good if you marry the wrong man, only to discover that it is the other you love.

My advice to you is that you consider your future on this basis, and only let other matters enter in to it if you love both of them, if such a thing is possible.

LOUISA.

Young Man's Problem

Dear Louisa—I've been going steady with a girl for a year and we loved each other very much. We were supposed to get married early this spring, and were supposed to have a big wedding, but on account of the muddy roads we had to put it off, and here's where my problem comes in.

When the roads did dry up, she made an excuse that there was the field work and since then she kept on making excuses whenever I brought up the subject.

So now I don't know what to do, as I am engaged to her, yet she won't give me the ring back. What would you do if you were in my boots?

G. W., Redwater.

Answer—It's not every often that I have men write to me, but I will try and give you an honest answer.

From what you say, it would seem that this girl has changed her mind about wanting to marry you, yet doesn't want to come right out and tell you for fear of hurting you.

And this is where you come in. Should this be the case, it would be wisest for both of you not to carry on your engagement any longer, because if she married you without loving you, your marriage would not be a happy one.

On the other hand, perhaps this is not the reason at all. Perhaps the excuses she has given you are quite valid, and in this case you will just have to wait for a satisfactory time for your wedding.

My advice is that you talk the whole subject out with her, not neglecting to mention that you love her, and that you want to know definitely when you two will be married. Let me know how things turn out.

LOUISA.

20th Century FARM NEWS

Grasshopper Fight Underway On Alberta Farm Lands

Under semi-arid prairie conditions, adapted cultivated grasses when grown alone, have a tendency to fall off in pasture carrying capacity and in hay yield after a few years. Experiments have shown conclusively that the addition of legume to these grasses helps to maintain the hay yield and pasture carrying capacity over a longer period. Alfalfa is the legume most generally used in grass mixtures on the prairies, although sweet clover may be used under certain conditions.

Alfalfa will persist under grazing provided it is not grazed too closely. It also tends to give a fair amount of herbage during a period of drought because of its deep rooting system.

From the results of pasture experiments it has been found that a grass alfalfa mixture provides for a longer period as the hot weather of summer approaches. Furthermore, in mixing with brome grass, it helps in overcoming the so-called "sod bound" condition. In a mixture with grass, the hazard of bloating from pasturing alfalfa alone is greatly lessened.

While experiments have shown that four to five pounds of alfalfa per acre would be ideal in a mixture, two pounds are recommended because of the relatively high price of the seed and even one pound per acre would be beneficial.

The mixture that is a standard at Scott, says A. G. Kuach, is the following: brome, four pounds; crested wheat grass, three pounds; and alfalfa, two pounds per acre. A heavier rate than three pounds of crested wheat grass per acre results in this grass dominating in about three years. This mixture gives a stand which is not too heavy for dry conditions. Heavier stands result in shorter growth, especially in dry seasons, thus giving less hay and pasture.

On land that is slightly rolling, the above mixture is very suitable, for crested wheat grass will dominate on the droughty hills while alfalfa and brome will do well in the depressions where moisture conditions are a little better.

The crested wheat grass provides pasture very early in the spring and in the late fall if moisture conditions are favorable, while during the heat of mid-summer, the brome and alfalfa will provide most of the pasture.

$681 Damages Set Following Assault

Albert Perrott, Morinville farmer, was assessed $681 damages by Mr. Justice Shepherd in supreme court recently for an unprovoked assault on Paul Pylychuk, Beverly welder, in a downtown Edmonton hotel.

Stanley D. Warner, testified that Perrott's salutation to Pylychuk was to walk up to him, curse him, and say, "You kicked me about when I was a kid. Try it now."

Evidence was that Perrott then had struck the plaintiff two or three times, knocking out two front upper teeth and damaging others.

On the witness stand in the civil action, Pylychuk, said that many years ago at Calahoo there had been trouble between the two families, but the dispute was between himself and Perrott's father.

Time to Treat Crops With 2-4-D

The essence of success in the control of weeds in growing crops by 2-4-D rests not only in employing the right chemicals at the right concentrations but also in spraying or dusting at the right stage of both weed and crop growth.

Treat Early. It cannot be stressed too strongly that the best results with 2-4-D are obtained when annual weeds such as Wild Mustard and Stinkweed are treated in the seedling stage. Once annual weeds have grown larger their resistance to 2-4-D increases rapidly. In consequence, the later the spraying or dusting is left the greater will be the amount of 2-4-D required to obtain a first-class kill; and the longer will the weeds be given a chance to compete with the crop. Treat early.

Stage of Crops. Although it is important to treat the weeds as soon as the seedling stage is reached it is equally important to bear in mind the stage of crop growth. Too early or too late treatment with 2-4-D is likely to lead to crop injury. In the case of cereal crops (wheat, oats, and barley) it is essential to wait until the grain plants are in the 3-leaf stage, or about 6 inches high, before they are treated. 2-4-D should not be applied to cereal crops after the plants have reached the early shoot-blade stage. On no account should cereal crops be treated when the plants are in the flowering or early heading stages of growth. With flax, treatment with 2-4-D should be made at the earliest opportunity after the flax plants have formed 4 or 5 leaves, since the weeds then will be more readily killed. Flax crops should not be sprayed or dusted with 2-4-D once the plants have started to bud. Late treatment of flax is likely to cause serious crop injury.

Seek Advice. More detailed information on the proper time to apply 2-4-D can be obtained from your local Line Elevator Agent. Ask him for a copy of our "2-4-D Time Treatment Chart." Remember early treatment with 2-4-D is essential for effective, economical weed control.

CATTLE EXPORTS TO U.S. KEEP BEEF PRICES HIGH

Sharply increased cattle exports to the United States have stripped some areas in Alberta of livestock and have been responsible for the high level of Canadian meat prices, Hugh W. Allen, president of the Alberta Livestock Co-operative, Ltd., said.

He was giving the directors' report to the annual meeting.

Mr. Allen said it is expected meat prices will remain "tied" to U.S. prices as long as substantial exports are possible to the U.S. market.

Mr. Allen reported that the ALG had its greatest year in 1940 in the 10-year history, handling more than $32,000,000 worth of business. Hog marketings had declined by half since the banner year of 1944, but cattle volume had doubled.

He said the best solution for the unsatisfactory hog situation is opening up of the U.S. market to hogs the same as for cattle.

He said the government had hinted that this might be done and, considering the superior quality of Canadian hogs, they would probably command a premium price in the U.S.

He said western producers would be able to ship to the western U.S. coast cheaper than U.S. producers in the heaviest producing areas.

Parliament Decides Policy On Vital Alberta Issues

By J. W. WELBURN, M.P.

Several matters of vital concern to Alberta and Western Canada have recently been decided in the House of Commons.

After six months discussion, two new companies have been incorporated to export natural gas from the Province of Alberta.

The members of the official Opposition, together with the members of the CCF Party, made a very strong attempt to have these two private bills talked out. The filibuster lasted from the time the bills were introduced early last session until May 15 of this year.

The granting of the charter to these two companies makes three companies holding Dominion Government charters. The three companies now incorporated are Alberta Natural Gas Company, the Prairie Transmission Lines Limited, and the West Coast Transmission Company. The West Coast Transmission Company received its charter over a year ago during the final session of the previous parliament.

If the Opposition groups had been successful in talking out the bills incorporating the other two companies, it would have left the West Coast Transmission Company with an absolute monopoly as to route followed and the price charged to the ultimate consumer.

As it now stands, with three companies authorized to construct pipe lines, the Board of Transport Commissioners and the Alberta Gas Conservation Board are in a position to bargain with these companies with a view to getting the most advantageous price for the gas and to be sure that the line follows an all Canadian route.

The granting of a Dominion Government charter does not give any one of these companies the right to export gas. Before doing so, they must apply to the Board of Transport Commissioners for permission to construct the line. They must apply to the Alberta Natural Gas Conservation Board for permission to export gas from Alberta. Furthermore, they must be able to furnish assurance that they are adequately financed, a project of this kind will cost from one hundred to two hundred million dollars.

In view of these facts, it is very hard to understand why members of the Conservative Party, together with members of the CCF Party, conducted a six months filibuster to prevent the granting of two additional charters.

In my opinion, an all Canadian route is desirable. If an all Canadian route through the mountains is feasible, the Yellowhead Pass affords the easiest, cheapest and most direct route from Alberta to Vancouver. When I say the most direct route, I am referring to the fact that the Edmonton gas field is in the approximate centre of the now known gas producing areas in the Province of Alberta.

There are the Turner Valley and Pincher Creek fields in the southern part of the province and the proven area around Peace River and Grande Prairie, in the northern part of the province, together with the recently discovered field in the Edmonton area. This leaves Edmonton as the approximate centre and the logical spot for establishing a collecting system for exportable gas in Alberta.

Unusual Pump In Alberta Town

AMISK. — A unique village pump has been installed here, one unlike anything else known in Alberta.

It is located on the edge of main street, enclosed in a comfortable heat. The pump operates through electricity and a person wanting for a pail of water just presses a button, puts the pail under the spout, and presto!

It was installed for the community by the Municipal District of Provost. It pumps soft water.

To be eligible for appointment to the Senate, a Canadian must own lands worth $4,000 and must be worth $4,000 above all debts.

THE RATS ARE COMING:

Provincial Expert Says Rodents Due Here Soon

Rats will be established in eastern Alberta by the fall. The warning came from J. H. Brown, provincial entomologist who spearheads the campaign to keep Alberta the only rat-free province in Canada.

Department of health field crews working north from Medicine Hat along the Alberta-Saskatchewan border found evidence recently that the main body of rats is established within two miles of the border.

Migrated Steadily

The main body, has migrated steadily across Saskatchewan towards Alberta during the past few years. Last year the rat infestation was 12 miles from the border.

The rats, which move to the fields in spring and summer, will move into farm buildings by fall, migrating into the Alberta areas adjacent to the border, Mr. Brown said.

The provincial entomologist strongly advocated a plan for educational work among residents of the districts which may be infested.

Poison Bait Use

"People of these districts must be instructed in the use of "poison bait and methods of trapping rats," Mr. Brown said.

Rat infestations can be expected by fall in the towns of Empress, Alask, Sibbald, Comper and Lorma and in the rural areas surrounding these centres, Mr. Brown said.

Average weekly wages paid to hourly-rated wage earners employed by leading Canadian manufacturing establishments reached a new peak of $43.10 during week ending March 1, 1950.

Loaded Truck Proves Too Much for Street

Apparently a three-ton loaded gravel truck is too much for Edmonton's Whyte Ave., as such a vehicle sank into the newly paved street in front of the Community Publications office Thursday morning. Trench dug to provide sewer extension had not been properly filled in, with result that heavy load caved in street. Driver is E. E. Mintz.

Tiny Mona Freeman Now Looks Her Age

HOLLYWOOD—Mona Freeman is delighted that she is finally "growing up" and "looking her age." Because she's the tiny Dresden doll type, nobody thinks she is her real age of 25 and she has been given 'kid' roles in most of her pictures.

These days she's smiling because Allan Ladd, Charles Bickford and other members of the "Branded" cast claims she looks her age in this technicolor western.

With the author's permission, Charles Laughton will do George Bernard Shaw's play, "Don Juan in Hell," for the first time in America. He and Charles Boyer will co-star with Laughton directing. The tour will start sometime in the fall.

Kathryn Grayson, slated to smoke her first cigarette on the screen, rebelled, declaring: "I don't smoke. I never have and I can see no reason why I should smoke on the screen. The cigarette companies can sue me for this, but they can't convince me there is any good reason for smoking."

Evelyn Keyes' star is rising. She has signed to make nine pictures in seven years for Universal—International, the first of which will be "Smuggler's Island," in which she will co-star with Jeff Chandler, who made a sensational hit in "Broken Arrow." Her contract gives her the right to make outside pictures.

Another busy person in Hollywood for the next five years will be Guy Madison. He'll play the character of "Wild Bill Hickok" in eight pictures, 30 weeks of radio and 52 weeks of television for David Hire production. With him will be Andy Devine and Miss McGee.

When Chill Wills, who provided the "voice" for the mule, "Francis," was not available for the sequel to that film, Universal International are planning to get Walter Craig, "the man of a thousand voices," to provide the imitation of Chill Wills' imitation of Francis.

It's hard to believe, but Mickey Rooney is celebrating his silver anniversary as an actor. The film star went to work in vaudeville with his parents, Joe Vule and Nell Carter, when he was three years old. He has made a total of 75 films since 1944.

Polly Bergin, pretty wife of Jerome Courtland was signed by Hal Wallis to a contract one

Cost Of Living Is Still Rising

High prices are still plaguing Alberta housewives, as official cost-of-living index shot up another 1.4 points during May to another record-breaking peak of 165.4, the bureau of statistics reported.

The rise during May, the bureau said, was due almost entirely to higher meat prices, which sent the foods sub-index soaring from 204.6 to 209.0.

On an average, fresh pork prices went up 6.3 cents a pound during May, beef prices 3.2 cents a pound, lamb 4.4 cents and veal 1.9 cents.

New Health Building For University

To coordinate important public health research with university facilities, new laboratories for the western branch of the Laboratory of Hygiene of the Department of National Health and Welfare are to be erected on the campus of South Edmonton's University of Alberta, Hon. Paul Martin announced this week.

The federal health minister said that a lease has been signed with the university for a four and one-half acre site and $61,000 has been provided in this year's estimates of the department for a laboratory which is to conform architecturally with other university buildings.

Summer is the time when no housewife wants to spend hours over a hot stove. Yet she still wants her family to have fine home cooked food, and in that event early morning is the time to do the baking.

Here are some mid-summer recipes, supplied by columnist Eva Crummy, that every homemaker will find satisfactory.

Delicate Angel Cake

1 1-2 cups fruit sugar
1 1-4 cups sifted cake flour
1 2 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 cup egg whites (8-10)
1-4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon almond extract
Sift the flour and sugar together four times. Beat egg whites until foamy, and then add the salt and cream of tartar. Continue beating until the whites are stiff, but not dry. Sift 2 tablespoons at a time of the flour and sugar mixture over the egg whites. Fold in carefully after each addition. Add almond extract. Turn into an ungreased angel food pan and bake at 275 F for 25 minutes and then at 300 F for the remaining time of 45 to 50 minutes. Invert pan with cake for an hour.

Crumo Cake

2 cups flour, 3-4 cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon soda, 1-2 teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 cup rich milk, 1 egg, 1 cup nuts.
Cut shortening into the flour and sugar until the mixture is about the consistency of bread crumbs. Reserve 3-4 cup of these crumbs. To the remaining crumbs, add the soda, cloves, cinnamon, and baking powder and salt. Mix thoroughly; stir in the milk and well beaten egg. Add chopped nuts and spread in an oiled 8x8 pan, sprinkle with crumbs. Bake at 350 F for 55 minutes.
